We understand that under the Arrangement between the governments, there is no formal clause that exists at this time between the Canadian and Australian governments which would cover the exchange of confidential business information (CBI) and, consequently, Environment and Climate Change Canada and Health Canada cannot be held accountable for the security provided by the Australian authorities.

We also understand that the information items exempt from publication in Canada because they are considered CBI will not automatically be exempt from publication in Australia. The information items that are exempt from publication by AICIS will be dependent on the requests for CBI protection made to AICIS for the Australian filing, and the decision of the Executive Director of AICIS on each request.

Yours sincerely,
